CLUB STUFF

Club dues are due before December 2009. Please use the attached form so we can update our records. The Clubs match was a great success. Many thanks to everyone who helped. 28 bulldogs were shown (note-last year we had 29) so it was a great registration. Of course the food was great. Great job everyone. The nominating committee has nominated the same officers for President, vice-president, secretary and treasurer. They also nominated Pauline DeVito, Bonnie Baxter and Debbie Wurster for the board. Floor nominations will be taken in November and elections will occur at the November meeting. Thanks to the nominating committee.

This meeting will have a guest speaker on the female reproductive system (canine). This was scheduled for Oct but had to be rescheduled due to weather.

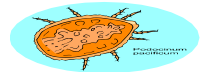

DEMODEX

Sounds like it is something out of a “B” movie at Halloween but all animals including humans seem to carry a natural population of demodex—microscopic parasitic mites—that live on the skin and in hair follicles. But when there is an overpopulation we call it demodectic mange. For a lot of unknown reasons the dog’s immune system fails to control the number of mites and the increased population results in inflammation or mange. Demodectic mange most commonly occurs in puppies under 8 months of age, although adult and even senior dogs can become affected if they have a breakdown in their immunity says Michael Paul, DVM. The most common method of transmission is the mite being passed from mother to her nursing puppies. Otherwise, it is not contagious. Usually you will notice patchy, localized hair loss. In severe, or generalized, cases, widespread hair loss, itching, and secondary bacterial skin infections are seen. The vet can do a microscopic exam of skin scrapes or a skin biopsy. Generalized and stubborn cases require aggressive treatment with special shampoos and various pills and/or dips. Some Vets used heartworm medication to assist in killing the mites. Antibiotics can treat any secondary infections. Localized cases will sometimes clear up on their own. There is little that can be done to prevent the increased infection. Good foods and careful watching seems to be the best treatment for prevention.

KEEPING KIDS AND DOGS SAFE FROM ONE ANOTHER

According to the national Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, about half of all children in the United States will have been bitten by a dog by the time they reach age 12—and among those children, the most severely injured are younger than 7. The American Humane Association wants to change those statistics by launching American Humane KIDS: Kids Interacting with Dogs Safely. This is a dog bite prevention program targeted to children under the age of 7.

The program tries to teach the children to be considerate of a dog’s feelings to help prevent dog bites. The program is great but a real help is parents teaching children the following rules:

1. Never approach a dog you don’t know or a dog who is alone without her owner.
2. Always ask the owner’s permission before petting a dog (how many times has the opposite happened to you at a show?).

3. Never approach a dog who is eating, sleeping or has something she really likes, such as a favorite bone or toy.
4. Don’t allow your child to poke at a dog or tease him.
5. Never run towards or away from a dog.

DON’T DISCARD THAT OLD VODKA.

Who knew????

To remove a bandage painlessly, saturate the bandage with vodka. The stuff dissolves adhesive.

To clean the caulking around bathtubs and showers, fill a spray bottle with vodka, spray the caulking, let set 5 minutes and wash clean.

Add a jigger of vodka to 12 ozs of your shampoo. The alcohol cleans the scalp, removes toxins from hair, and stimulates the growth of healthy hair.

Fill a 16 oz. trigger spray bottle with vodka and spray bees and wasps to kill them.

Pour vodka over an area affected with poison ivy to remove the urushiol oil from your skin.

Fill a clean used mayonnaise jar with freshly packed lavender flowers, fill the jar with vodka, seal the lid tightly and set in the sun for 3 days. Strain the liquid through a coffee filter, then use this to apply the tincture to aches and pains.

Vodka will disinfect and alleviate a jellyfish sting.
